MORGAN MAN ENGAGES IN LAUNDRY BUSINESS

Carl Hale left Morgan in 1927 and went to Champagne, Ill., where he now resides and is engaged in the laundry business. So far as we know, he is the first man to be in this column as operator of a laundry business. His family of five children grew up there. Two daughters, Caville and Rae, live in New York. One son, Forest, lives in Middletown, O. A daughter, Mrs. Letha Cox, lives in San Diego, Calif., and a daughter, Mrs. Faye Snyder, lives in St. Petersburg, Florida.

Mr. Hale was a visitor in West Liberty Wednesday with his brother-in-law, John Crouch, of Ebon, and it was a genuine pleasure to meet him again and talk with him. He is a brother to Arlie Hale, who passed away in 1947. In his conversation he mentioned the great improvement in roads and farms and the homes in Morgan since he left. It is always encouraging to meet men from Morgan who go away, and return on a visit and to learn of their success.

We would like for more of them to come in and tell us so we can tell others.

Only Low-Nicotene Burley Wanted For Cigarettes, Farmers Are Told

High Content Is Causing State Drastic Losses

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 5.—Tobacco growers were urged today to concentrate on production of low-nicotene-content burley to satisfy the ever-increasing demand for that type leaf by cigarette manufacturers.

"The burley tobacco we are producing now has a nicotine content of from 25 to 30 per cent," said Dr. W. D. Valleau, plant pathologist and tobacco-research specialist at the University of Kentucky. Valleau spoke at the concluding session of the Farm and Home Convention on the university campus here.

Says News Is Bad

Cigarette manufacturing companies are "not inclined to use much of the burley now being grown in Kentucky in their blends," the U.K. specialist warned leaf producers. "I have personal knowledge that at least one big manufacturer of cigarettes has cut its use of burley down to a minimum. This news isn't good for the future of burley production in our state."

Later, another U.K. tobacco expert stated privately that three cigarette companies have "drastically reduced their use of burley in recent months." This information came from Russell Hunt, a field agent at the university who specializes in tobacco production. Hunt presided at today's session of the convention.

Substitutes Used
Many cigarette companies are substituting flue-cured tobacco for burley in their blends, Hunt told a reporter. This, he said, is "due entirely to the heavy content of nicotine in our burley."

Valleau, nationally known for his research in the field of low-nicotene-content varieties of tobacco, suggested that farmers plant more Kentucky 35 and Kentucky 41A. These two varieties, he said, are known to have very low nicotine content.

Can Go Ahead Now

The manufacturers are "not going around looking for a low-nicotene crop here and another there," Valleau stated. "They are looking to you Kentucky burley growers to produce an entire season's state-wide crop of burley that has very little nicotine in it."

Knowledge that cigarette companies want this type burley "enables us now to go ahead with an aggressive program looking to production of these (low-nicotene-content) varieties," the pathologist declared.

The urgent need to produce a burley of higher quality points out the necessity of "more effective use of fertilizers," said C. E. Bortner, U.K. agricultural chemist in a tobacco field will result in production of "heavy, coarse, toasty."

Bortner warned the tobacco growers to avoid over-use of nitrogen and phosphate in their fertilizer programs. "If we err in putting on too much nitrogen growth will definitely slow up."

An overabundance of nitrogen bacco," Bortner said.

ADMINISTRATION TO HOLD LIEN ACT

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 10.—The Democratic administration today won the first test vote in its legislative battle to keep Kentucky's public-assistance lien law on the statute books.

The state senate beat down a move to take a repeal bill away from a committee where it has been bottled up since Jan. 31. The vote was 21-12.

If the move of Sen. Doug Hays (D-McDowell) had been successful the bill would have received the first of three readings necessary before any measure can be called up for a vote.

The bill, of only one short sentence, would repeal the five sections of the lien law, enacted by the 1952 legislature. The law gives the state a lien against real estate left at death by needy aged and blind who draw public assistance.

After defeat of his motion, Hays said the next step would be to take away the companion measure from a committee there.

Voting for the committee to retain the lien-law proposal were Democrats Bach, Blake, Bonn, Duffy, Grafton, Lassiter, McCann, Maloney, Montgomery, Richmond, Ruh, Sample, Shaubkin, B. F. Shields, Tom Shields, Stapleton, Mrs. Webb, Wickliffe, Williams and Withers.

Voting with Hays for his motion were Democrats Craft, Freeman, Grace, Reynolds and Sullivan and Republicans Clarke, Davis, Hines, Loscy, Vanhoose and West.

Speaking for Hays' motion, Grace asserted the law "has worked a great hardship upon the elderly and needy people of Kentucky." He urged cuts in some appropriations and salaries, without mentioning any specific slashes, and to "stop building the $600,000 hotels like down on Kentucky Lake for tired politicians to lay around in." Kenlake hotel is state-owned at one of its parks. Grace also declared he had heard of "handicaps and pitfalls" in administration of welfare laws and "if so, we should spend part of our time correcting these laws."

The state's claim against real estate of assistance recipients can be enforced after their death but not until the surviving spouse dies or remarries and the youngest minor reaches the age of 21.

In effect the action is against legal heirs and is secondary to costs of the final illness, burial and administering the estate. The aim is to recover where possible assistance paid the home-owning recipients and the law tends to put more responsibility on adult children of the recipients.

About 5,500 persons have withdrawn from assistance rolls since the law went into effect rather than submit to the lien agreement.

BAPTISTS BUY EZEL BUILDING; PLAN MISSION

Preaching Service And Sunday School Planned For Ezel

The West Liberty Baptist church has purchased the building formerly used by the Church of God in Ezel. The property will be used by the Baptists for a mission church. Rev. Gordon Duncanson, pastor of the West Liberty church, announced the purchase today.

The property was obtained from Rev. Charles Reid, former pastor of the Ezel church. Homer Haney, Charles Black and J. C. Nickell, trustees, acted in their official capacity for the West Liberty Baptist church. The missions committee of the church was active in arranging the transaction. Active members of the committee were Berlyn Brown, Homer Haney, J. W. Cecil and Charlie Dixon.

Rev. Duncanson stated that since there was no Baptist church in the immediate vicinity of Ezel, and only one other church, the West Liberty congregation had a dual purpose in mind. It hopes to give those people of the community with Baptist preference a church home in which they can actively participate. Secondly, an evangelistic effort will be made to reach the spiritually unconcerned or inactive in the community. Friendship and cooperation will be expressed in every practical way to the existing churches of the area.

A schedule of preaching services will be announced soon by Rev. Duncanson and the missions committee of the West Liberty church. Rev. Duncanson expressed the hope that a Sunday school hour could soon be added to the program. He added that a revival meeting would be held in the near future.

BURLEY INCOME UP TO $2,215,484

Morgan county's cash income from last year's burley tobacco crop rose $31,224.00 from the past week to reach $2,215,484.27 on Wednesday.

The figures are computed from tobacco checks cleared through the Commercial Bank of West Liberty until the close of business Wednesday.

The $2,215,484.27 has been received by farmers in a total of 3,550 checks clearing so far during the season.

Total income of the previous year's crop was $2,179,000. Thus last year's crop already has exceeded the 1952 crop by $36,484.00, and observers here predict it will go above 2 1/2 million dollars when all checks are in.

POTLUCK SOCIAL

There will be a potluck social at the Methodist church, Monday evening, Feb. 15, at 5:30.

Federal Agencies Study Economic Plight, Unemployment In Coal Area

Federal and state officials are touring the coal counties of the Kentucky and Big Sandy river sections this week to study first-hand the increasing unemployment and bad business conditions resulting from a sick coal industry.

Purpose of the survey is to find industrial facilities that might be expanded to provide more jobs and see what can be done to develop more markets for coal, prime natural resource of the regions.

Representatives of the United States Department of Commerce and State Agricultural & Industrial Development Board left on the tour after conferring in Frankfort with Governor Wetherby.

The group held meetings Tuesday and Wednesday in the Kentucky river section at Middlesboro, Corbin, Harlan and Hazard, and moved into the upper Big Sandy Thursday for meetings at Pikeville and Prestonsburg and then will go to Beattyville and Irvine Friday.

The State A. & I. D. board provided information on East Kentucky conditions, including data on unemployment, population, industrial sites and buildings, manufacturing facilities, forest resources, coal and other minerals, and plans for developing the Kentucky and Big Sandy rivers.

MCHS TIPS HAZARD AND FRENCHBURG

Coach Glenn Stanley's Morgan basketballers registered wins number 11 and 12 in easy fashion this week, outscoring Hazard's Bulldogs 55-39 and rolling over Frenchburg's Wildcats to the tune of 87-31.

The Hazard setback meant sweet revenge to the local Devils as the Bulldogs had topped the Morgan lads 64-57 in a previous performance at Hazard. The contest presented itself as a close scoring duel during the first three quarters of the fray with Morgan taking a close 38-36 edge at the three-way mark. The Morgan quintet caught fire during the final frame, however, outscoring the visiting Hazard five by 17-3. The blazing finish displayed by the Devils enabled them to wrap up the final decision by 6 points, 55-39.

A sizeable amount of the credit must be attributed to the spectacular rebounding of center Thornton Hill and forward Earl May. Hill also nabbed Blue scoring honors with 17.

The Blue Devils continued their net splitting antics the following Tuesday night against a weak but spirited Frenchburg five.

After jumping off to a quick 11-1 lead in the contest, Morgan netters were never headed by their outclassed foe.

The Devils led 20-6 at the first quarter end, 38-16 at halftime, and 62-23 at the third rest before taking the final verdict by 56 points, 87-31.

Fred Blair and Earl May led the Morgan team afield with 21 and 20 points respectively. Doug Hall headed the Menifee couglans with 9.

The Devils will play Russell and Oil Springs on Thursday and Friday nights before traveling to Salyersville Tuesday for a return match with the 24th-ranking Hornets.

The local cagers have won 10 of their last 12 outings on the hardwood.

ELLIOTT TO GET PHONE SERVICE ABOUT APR. 15

Supplemental Loan of $77,000 Granted by REA

Elliott county patrons of the new Mountain Rural Telephone Co-op will be cut into the new system as soon as lines are built to the Sandy Hook sub-station and the new cable from Sandy Hook to West Liberty is completed. Woodrow W. Barber, manager, said this week.

The co-op has ordered a shipment of dial phones and these will be installed for Elliott patrons by the co-op's service men as soon as they are received, Mr. Barber said.

Then, as soon as the Elliott lines are built and the cable from Sandy Hook to West Liberty's central exchange is finished, the Elliott patrons will be cut in for both local and long distance service. This will probably be around April 15, Mr. Barber said.

All right of way work in Elliott county will be completed in about ten days. Meanwhile, crews of the Stak Construction Co. have set most of the poles on lines from Newfoundland to the Rowan and Carter county lines and in the Starke and Mauck Ridge sections. The company is expected to complete its work of building the co-op's 80 miles of lines in Elliott by April 1, maybe sooner.

Crews then will move to Wolfe county to build lines there before moving into Morgan to finish their three-county contract. The entire system should be completed by July 1.

Stromberg-Carlson Company of New York is assembling the inside exchange equipment for the central exchange at West Liberty and the sub-station exchanges at Sandy Hook, Campton, Hazel Green and Ezel, and this equipment is due to be received some time in March for installation.

The co-op was granted a REA loan of $743,000 with which to build a modern dial system in its three county area.

The co-op was granted a supplemental REA loan of $77,000 Senator Earle C. Clements advised Manager Barber in a telegram Wednesday.

CIVIC PRIDE OUTRAGED

Two years ago the Morgan County Woman's Club carried out a town beautification project in which it purchased evergreen trees and shrubs and had them set out along the highway entrances to West Liberty.

Since Christmas it has been discovered that two of the evergreens set out beside US 460 in the eastern edge of town have been cut down. Whether they were cut for Christmas trees or just wantonly by vandals is not known. However, the club members are considering ways to find out and to prevent any further damage to the beautification project.

Beautifying the highway entrances to town was a noteworthy civic project—one that would have added to the town's beauty for years to come. That some unthinking person or wanton culprit would thus destroy the potential beauty of their town seems hardly possible in this community. But, nevertheless, the act has been committed. It is an act that not only has aroused the ire of the Woman's Club members but also all civic-minded citizens. They want the evergreen trees and shrubs protected and nurtured for the general improvement of our beautiful little mountain town.

Law enforcement officers are willing to help in protecting the trees and shrubs, but the vigilance of citizens and residents are needed to see that no other such acts are permitted to occur.

MORGAN A BRIGHT BUSINESS SPOT

Morgan is now recognized as one of the few bright spots in the economic picture in Eastern Kentucky. Morgan, Elliott, Carter, Boyd and Laurel counties are pictured as bright spots for business in an otherwise bleak economic picture for the section.

Morgan, Elliott, Carter and Laurel depend primarily on tobacco and farming for their major sources of income. Boyd depends largely on Armo, Ashland Oil & Refining Co. and the C. & O. Railway. Other Eastern Kentucky counties depend primarily on coal, which now is a sick industry, with thousands of people out of work. Morgan ranks as the top-producing burley county in Eastern Kentucky, with Carter second and Elliott third. It is worthy to note that bank deposits in these three counties have increased considerably while loans have decreased. This is in contrast to bank figures from most other counties of the area where deposits are either down or about the same while loans are up.

Tobacco, while a profitable farm enterprise, represents only partially the potential income that could be Morgan county's. By adding dairying, sheep, cattle, strawberries and sorghum molasses, Morgan could possibly double its income.

Strawberries and sorghum molasses bring almost as much cash per acre as burley tobacco, and there is a ready crop for these succulent farm products.

Diversification is always wise business, especially in troubled times. If the cigarette-cancer scare cuts cigarette sales appreciably, it may be necessary to shift farm practices in Morgan. Strawberries, sorghum, sheep, cattle and dairying may be the answer. It would be wise to start them now.

Around The Family Circle

DR. ADOLPHUS GILLIAM

WHAT IS THE SOURCE OF MOST OF OUR TROUBLE?

The other day I was asked a question which I had been asked many times before and that is—what is the source of most of our troubles? I think most of you know that I am not a pessimist. I hope that I am not a blind optimist either but I have confidence in mankind. I have confidence in God and thereby I have confidence in the future. I have no way of predicting, and nobody knows, what the tomorrows have in store for us but we do know that with the resources we have we can face them. As we make our way we are beset on every side, if not by our own troubles by those of our people, our friends, and our fellowman. Trouble is on every side, one kind or another; some of it may be trivial and yet to the person that is bothered by it it is tremendously and continually worthwhile.

All of us know that ignorance is a source of a great many troubles; it is a very hard thing to beat. It is one of the hardest things to deal with that I have ever met; ignorance in our people, in their facts and truth, and their unwillingness to have enlightenment. You cannot reason with ignorance. The mind of ignorance is emotions and too many of us let our emotions do our thinking. I have never seen that happen in the life of anybody that did not run into a lot of trouble and thereby cause a lot of trouble. I believe that the source of most of our trouble is plain, simple, downright selfishness. Of course when you begin tracing most of our evils and most of our wrongs and go back into the roots of it you find that the roots are growing in selfishness somehow or other. Now I am very sure that some of you will not agree with me but I am not convinced that man naturally is selfish. I have been told that over and over again. I am not sure by any means that that little fellow who is so fine and beautiful and lovely and that we love so much and like to watch was created a selfish being and there is no way out of it. I think he was created in the image of an unselfish God and consequently if he can be brought up in that pattern and image he will be an unselfish being. How many parents by their very lives, their very acts, and their very dealings with their little fellows turn them in the way in which they are selfish and begin to seek their own and their own only and that becomes a disaster early in life. It begins when the little fellow starts to take the other fellow's playthings, he begins to get jealous when others have more than he has and when he does that he begins to manipulate ways of getting things; it doesn't matter much how he gets it because selfishness never asks any questions much except to get hold of something. When that grows in a human soul nobody knows the limits of it. We have seen it in such men as Hitler and Mussolini and Alexander and all those who tried to take a world for themselves and bled the nations to do it.

Yes, you have seen it in that but how many of us have seen it in our own neighbors perhaps. They have not gone in that direction but they are just about as selfish, if they had the possibilities of becoming so. They seek nothing but themselves and for themselves, they talk about themselves, they hoard for themselves, they are thinking of tomorrow as to what it will do for them; their manipulations with their neighbor is a kind of political thing. They do things in this fashion—I am doing this because it will do something for me tomorrow or there will be a reaction to this that I do today that is a favor, but I am doing it only because I want something in return. The Master met up with that kind of folk and He said, "You know people are good to those who are good to them. They give to those who give to them and that is expected of even the Gentiles" (and they were not thought of very highly at that time). He said, "The man who is unselfish gives without thinking of the return. He gives because he wants to give it."

Here in the realm in which you and I live we have a lesson all around us everywhere, which is the handwriting of an Eternal God. Nature is His handiwork that obeys Him. There is nothing in nature that disobeys; it goes on and does as it is patterned to do. Man is the only thing that we know anything about that God created that stepped aside, broke His plan, destroyed the pattern, and began to dispute with God and the highest heaven. You can see what a mess he got into when he did it and you see every time he steps aside what he gets into, in the little fellow and in the grown-up, because he is running cross current with the laws of the universe that makes the nature around us. You have never seen nature stingy. You look into it carefully and you will find that everything in nature is giving itself away. Watch your flower—it comes out and pours out its beauty and aroma, then sheds its leaves back on mother earth and mother earth covers her bosom but absorbs that and gives it back to the flower in the springtime.

The ocean is giving itself away to the cloud and the rain cloud to the earth and the earth to the tree and everything is just giving in a cycle, keeping nothing for itself, not hoarding. If it overflows it pours out all it has on the valley of overflows it pours out all it has on the valley of bringing forth more. Nature is working that way at giving, just continually, and you and I are the receivers. In the receiving of it we take it and hoard it and we forget to give it back and then we become selfish. We are here in the midst of the unselfish workings of an unselfish God. I believe that selfishness is the source of most of our trouble because selfishness is anti-God; it is over on the opposite side because God is unselfish. We are told that God is love. Paul gave us a very fine picture of what love did but you and I know what it does, don't we? We have loved enough in our lives to know that when we love the greatest joy on earth is giving something to the object of our love. Mothers know all about it, or much about it at least, when they see that little fellow for whom they would give their very life and to whom they would give the last thing they have to make it well or feel good and rejoice in doing so. That is love; it is unselfish; it can never be selfish; it can never seek its own. So, you can see then that the source of our goodness and mercy and pleasures and beauty is in love. There is where you will find all the beauty of the world blending out of the gifts of what it has to offer. Watch that young couple who are going to get married and if they are unselfish and devoted to each other they are going to make a beautiful home and as long as they are divorced from themselves and given to each other they are going to be a strong support and hard to overcome. But let them become selfish, begin to cheat on the other and unwilling to do for the other while they lose and you will see them break the law of the universe and ugliness will enter into it.

The nations of the earth that are seeking their own today are searing the life out of good people and destroying our boys on the battlefield by selfish ignorance. If we can get rid of this selfishness that gets into our being then we will eliminate most of our troubles. I know of but one way to rid the heart of selfishness and that is by the love of God being shed abroad in the heart by the Holy Spirit which is given unto mankind. The Kingdom of God is not meat and drink but is righteousness, peace and joy in the Holy Spirit. We know that we are the children of an unselfish God and when we go astray in the field of selfishness we will break our own heart and the hearts of others. So, let us not travel in that road. Get out of it, get back in the wide open of God's goodness and mercy. Seek not your own. "Give and it shall be given unto you, good measure pressed down shaken together, heaped up and running over shall men give into your bosom" is the law of the universe. When you break that law you suffer. When you obey it then life is yours abundantly.

WOMAN'S CLUB HEARS REVIEWS OF POETRY BY EASTERN KY. AUTHORS

Despite the fact that Rufus M. Reed of Lovely, Ky., was unable to be at the meeting of the Fine Arts Department of the woman's club Thursday night, due to icy condition of roads, the reviews of three books of poetry by Eastern Kentucky authors made up an interesting program.

Mrs. Rosaline Emrick was hostess for the meeting, assisted by Miss Bonnie Ruth Lewis and Mrs. H. B. Murray.

Mrs. Woodrow W. Barber, Fine Arts chairman, presented the devotional and read passages from the Bible.

Mrs. Ralph Gullett reviewed two books of poetry written by Sylvia Trent Auxier of Pikeville and gave a brief biography of Mrs. Auxier.

"Mrs. Auxier is a modern woman," said Mrs. Gullett, "who writes sensitively of tradition in an era of lamplight and love-cherms." Mrs. Auxier has woven the love-cherms theme into the title poem of her book, "Love-Vine."

Blue-eyed wif in a pinafore,
Casting a strand of pale love-vine
To test the vows her lover swore,
Chants intently the ancient line:
"If you love me, live and grow;
If you do not, die and go."

Weary woman with a roughened hand
Shades her eyes from the bright sunshine
To see her husband mowing
the land,
Cursing the clinging dodder
vine!

Sylvia Auxier, the reviewer said, writes eloquently of mountain men and women, portraying them in metaphysical terms that gives sharpness to many of her poems.

Mrs. Gullett read a number of poems from "Love-Vine" and also from "Meadow-Rue." In the latter book the last poem embodies a spirit of resentment and finally reconciliation—

I thought if I could lean, with reeling brain,
Above some deep abyss where depth was lost
In yawning depth; with thirsty
soul, could drain
The beauty of some flower,
strange to frost,
Or lay my searching, finite
rule of sight
Against some probing peak
whose finger rent
An alien sky's remote, unmeasured height—
I would know God and
knowing, be content.

I stayed at home. I leaned my restless soul
Along the deep abyss of midnight sky
Above my roof; against the hills that roll
With gentleness—yet stubbornly defy
The winds, I laid my finite rule
of sight;
And read within this humble
flower, bent
Among the grass, perfection infinite—
Here I found God, and now I am content.

Katherine McClure Amyx of Grassy Creek, who has had about forty poems published, was a guest at the meeting and gave a review of Truda McCoy's book, "Till The Frost." Mrs. McCoy lives on a Pike county farm and has written and had published hundreds of poems. Many of the poems in her book have won prizes. She was awarded $50.00 prize for the poem, "Lonely Hill."

No human eye will ever, ever see
All of the beauty of a lonely hill.
It stands half-veiled in magic mystery,
Strong in the storm and calm
when winds are still.
But creatures of the woods
have come to know
The heart-beat and the beauty of it all—
The green of summer and the sun's warm glow;

The frozen whiteness of the winter's shawl.
My heart has known a season
filled with song,
And felt the deep of loneliness
and fear;
Has braved the storm . . . the hill and I belong
Together . . . only . . . I am shackled here.

I seek escape . . . strange
visions come and go;
The lonely hill is something I would know.

Mrs. McCoy's title poem, explained Mrs. Amyx, tells about the poet's humble conception of self—

I shall be one among you till the frost
With frigid fingers ruffles up
my hair;
I shall be one so small I shall be lost
Among the shadows—but I do not care.

I am a flower of the dullest hue,
With roots deep in the hills;
The oak, the pine
Were comrades in the other days I knew
Their grove-sanctified ares a sacred shrine.
Thus was I nurtured till I
stood alone;
Thus I remember other, younger days.
Their beauty fed me till it seemed my own;
I lend my voice to give the added praise.
I shall be one among you at
the feast,
But all unnoticed . . . being but the least.

Mrs. Barber read a number of poems written by her sister-in-law, the late Sylvia Graham. The poems had been included in J. T. Cotton Noel's Anthology of Kentucky Poetry.

Arrangements for the program were made by Mrs. Henry Stacy. The hostesses served a salad course at the conclusion of the program.

Those present were Mrs. Woodrow Barber, Mrs. Rosaline Emrick, Mrs. Stanley Gullett, Miss Bonnie Ruth Lewis, Mrs. Ova B. Amyx, Mrs. Elsie Lacy, Miss Mary Buher, Mrs. Ralph Gullett, Mrs. Fred Penniston, Mrs. H. B. Murray, and Mrs. Henry Stacy.

DON'T LIKE BUS CHANGE

(Menifee County News)

The county is buzzing with criticism for the new Greyhound bus schedule. According to officials of the Greyhound Lines, the change has been approved by the Public Service Commission, so we wonder what can be accomplished toward having the morning bus put back on schedule. Not too much complaint was heard when the proposal was first made. But at that time the understanding of most persons in the county was that the afternoon bus would be discontinued and that we would still have a morning and evening bus.

Mrs. K. K. Little, employed in the local ticket office, states that the change has certainly caused ticket sales to drop drastically. "People just won't wait for the noon bus if they are going only a short distance such as Mt. Sterling, Lexington or Winchester," said Mrs. Little. They simply find another method of getting there. One man came in this week and told us of having to wait five or six hours in Lexington to get on up here after coming in on an early morning bus from another state. Anyone who wishes to travel on Route 15 just cannot make reasonable connections. Leaving on the earliest bus from here, the 11:53, they would have to wait over in Winchester until 7:05 p.m. for a bus to Camp-ton or any town on Route 15. It sure has hurt local travel and has made it bad all the way around. When they discussed removing a bus they mentioned removing the noon bus which, though bad enough, would not have worked the hardship on people that the present schedule is doing. If there is any way to have the old schedule reinstated, we would certainly strongly advocate that it be done immediately.

Court Days and Stock Sale Days in Mt. Sterling used to find the buses crowded to capacity both going and coming but now the farmers are finding other means of making the trip into Mt. Sterling. One remarked, "There is no point going if you don't get there in time to see things sell. How can we get the bus company to change the schedule back the way it was?"

Farm Land Prices Drop 10 Percent

The United States Department of Agriculture, through the University of Kentucky, reports a drop of 10 percent in land values in Kentucky from November, 1952, to November, 1953. This is in keeping with the trend in land values the country over.

The decline in land prices, which first became apparent in the spring of 1953, continued during the summer and fall. In the four months ending Nov. 1, declines of 2 percent or more occurred in all but three states, and 10 states had declines of 5 percent or more.

The largest declines were in states affected by drought and lower prices for cattle, with the sharpest drops in Kentucky and Tennessee westward to Utah. In other states the declines in prices were more moderate and resulted largely from the general let-down in prices of farm products. The report indicates there was no rush to sell farms last year. Probably fewer farms were sold during the summer and fall of 1953 than during any comparable period since 1939, it is stated.

LICKING RIVER SCHOOL

When Bernard E. Whitl visited the Licking River school Monday he found that four families had recently moved from the district. Mrs. Anna Henry has moved to Lawrenceburg, Ind.; T. A. Calhoun to West Liberty; Johnny Jones to Pomp, and J. B. Couch to Pomp. There are only eight children left in the district.

Home and Garden Department Met At Potter Home

The Home and Garden Department of the Woman's Club met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. H. D. Potter.

After a short business session, Mrs. J. Blaine Nickell gave an interesting account of the twelfth night (Jan. 6) celebration of the Feast of the Epiphany of the Greek Orthodox church at Tarpon Springs, Florida. It is the only such celebration in the Americas and celebrants and visitors come from both North and South America, as far away as Argentina. Tarpon Springs is the center of sponge fisheries and is largely populated by Greeks, the sponge fleet being operated by Greeks. Greek-Americans compose the official life of the town.

After Mrs. Nickell's talk, refreshments of apple pie, coffee and tea were served. The illness of several members was reported and because of this the number present was small.

Kiwanis Entertain Local Boy Scouts

The West Liberty Kiwanis Club entertained the West Liberty Boy Scouts at their meeting Wednesday at Stamper's Restaurant. Wendell Nickell, president, paid a tribute to Jerald Gevedon for his fine work as Scout leader. H. D. Potter was appointed as Scout drive campaign chairman.

The following boys were present: Danny McClain, Harold Helton, Jimmie Fannin, Lawrence Helton, Jimmie Ruth, Pat Craft, Lanny Franklin, Ever Long, Leonard Ruth, Bobbie Nickell, Rex Childers and Jo Stacy Wells.

The boys will take a hike Saturday morning and Harold Barber, State Biologist of the Department of Conservation, will lead the boys in their march. President Nickell told of the organization of a new club at Martin, Ky. He also announced that plans for the swimming pool were going forward.

POMBLES-HONCHUL WEDDING IN OHIO

The following account of the wedding of a Morgan countian is from a Middletown, O., paper:

In a double-ring ceremony performed yesterday at 3:30 p.m. at St. Mary's church, Camden, Miss., Mary Louise Pombles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pombles of Gratis, became the bride of G. P. Honchul, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Honchul of Caney, Ky.

Bouquets of white gladioli, carnations and snapdragons, and candelabra and palms formed the setting for the double-ring ceremony performed by Father Richard Redman.

Miss Helen Angst, vocalist, and Mrs. Ann Tompert, organist, presented the nuptial music for the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white silver satin and Chantilly lace. The bodice of lace featured a standup collar. Her fingertip veil of nylon tulle was caught to a cap made of lace and satin and trimmed with pearls. She carried a white Bibbie topped with an arrangement of stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Miss Kathryn Pombles. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Gene Blakely and Mrs. Jack Brown. They wore ballerina-length gowns of faile crepe designed with tucked bodices and flared skirts.

Miss Pombles wore a mauve-colored dress and carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and red roses, with matching ribbon streamers. Her floral headpiece corresponded with flowers used in her bouquet. The bridesmaids wore blue gowns and carried coral and white carnations with blue ribbon streamers. They also wore matching floral headpieces.

Miss Linda Gibson, flower girl, wore a yellow crepe gown and carried a basket of yellow and white carnations, with yellow streamers.

Gene Blakely served as best man, and Garland Gibson and David Pombles were the ushers.

Following the wedding in Camden, a reception was held in the social room of the First Church of United Brethren, Gratis.

The mother of the bride wore a dusty rose dress and brown accessories. Mrs. Honchul chose a pink checked suit and black accessories. Both wore corsages of pink and white carnations.

The new Mrs. Honchul, who attended Gratis high school and is employed by Crystal Tissue Co., departed for her wedding trip in a gray wool jersey dress, red accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mr. Honchul was graduated from Cannel City high school and is a Quality Steel Co. employee. Mr. and Mrs. Honchul will make their home at 220 S. Main St., Franklin.

vanced 1954 engines—the thoroughly proved "Blue-Flame 125" engine teamed with Powerglide (available on all models at extra cost) or the thoroughly proved "Blue-Flame 115" engine!

FORESTRY AIDE TO WORK HERE

Timberland owners in Morgan county now have a consulting forestry service available. E. E. Reynolds, Service Forester, with the Kentucky Division of Forestry has recently been assigned this work.

Upon request of a woodland owner the Division of Forestry will enter into an agreement with the owner to render assistance on his land. Mr. Reynolds will examine the woods carefully with the owner, or his agent, and devise a plan of management which is discussed on the ground with the owner. This management plan is later submitted to the owner in the form of a written report.

If the woodland contains merchantable timber the Forester will make an estimate of the trees to be cut in order to improve the condition of the remaining timber. Upon completion of the field work the owner will be furnished with a report showing the number and board feet volume of the marked trees. This information is given for each kind of trees marked such as yellow poplar, white oak, etc. There is a charge of 40¢ per thousand board feet for this service including the office work.

Interested timberland owners may obtain more information by contacting Forest Ranger Vergil Lewis, West Liberty, or writing E. E. Reynolds, Service Forester, Box 655, Morehead, Ky.

West Liberty Baptists Oversubscribed Budget

The members of the West Liberty Baptist church oversubscribed a record budget at the conclusion of a special stewardship revival January 31. A balance of $1,889.99 was needed to reach a budget of $4,622.75 to complete the fiscal year ending June 30. The congregation subscribed $2,119.22, thus raising the anticipated contributions to a record $4,852.90 for the year.

This is the first completely planned budget under which the church has operated. The change in financial plans began with a study course for the church held in October. They studied the Bible teachings on personal and church stewardship using the book, "Found Faithful," by Merrill D. Moore. In November the church voted to adopt the church budget and every member canvassed plans. A budget committee, consisting of Charles H. Dixon, Sunday school superintendent, Berlyn Brown, treasurer, Marvin Berry, Training Union director, J. W. Cecil, Brotherhood president, Mrs. Homer Hays, women's mission president, Mr. Haney and L. H. Owens, Rev. Gordon Duncan, pastor, was an advisory member and inspirational guide. The church adopted a budget proposed by the committee.

A stewardship revival was held the week of January 27. Rev. Rakes of the Morehead Baptist church preached on Thursday night. Rev. Rader of the Olive Hill Baptist church was speaker on Friday night. Rev. Cunningham of the Cannelton Baptist church spoke on Saturday evening. Rev. Duncan continued the theme for his messages January 31. The members were given opportunity to make tithing and budget pledges at the Sunday morning service. Those not present were contacted at their homes in the afternoon by the committee.

The West Liberty church was founded in 1913. It has approximately 130 members of which approximately 85 are living in this community. Rev. Gordon Duncan has been pastor for two and a half years.

The budget for 1953-54 called for the following expenses:

Local Expenses:
Pastor's Salary $1,500.00
Literature 483.00
Buildings, janitor 1,547.25
and Repairs 597.50
Other Expenses 1,427.75
Total $4,127.75

State and Southwide Causes:
Baptist Cooperative Program $ 360.00
Other Mission Work 135.60
Total $ 495.60
Grand Total $4,622.75

Special offerings for hospitals, orphans, schools and missions will be in addition to the budget.
